

Wardrobe Full of Shoes

© Radha Sahar, February 2009 Photo: Charles Bagnall

Sometimes I wonder if I'm a real woman
I don't have a wardrobe full of shoes
What will I wear to my son's wedding?
Yes, I'm the Mother of the groom!

My daughter sorts me - I'm trying to walk
In ritzy, green Italian high heels
Look so elegant, stand so tall, yes
I am gorgeous – that's how I feel!

I usually wear practical flat shoes, black shoes
One pair, well designed
With a good orthotic - not a hot topic
But it keeps me in my prime
I'm on my feet in shoes so sweet for dancing
This lifetime!

My friend Julie's a real woman
Adores her wardrobe full of shoes
I got one pair – should give them to her
But I keep them to remember you

When I am old I'll find those shoes
Still new – and I'll be filled with joy!
As I fondly picture the beautiful bride
And my wonderful, handsome, happy boy!

I'm back in my comfortable Mary-Jane's
Dreaming of the day
You have a daughter who loves these heels
Together we'll strut and say
"We're on our feet
In shoes so sweet for dancing!"

I dance in my practical flat shoes, black shoes
One pair, well designed
At 80 I'll frolic - my good orthotic
Will keep me in my prime
We're on our feet in shoes so sweet for dancing
This lifetime!

