

The Honey & the Star

©1979 Radha Sahar, rewrite, New Year's Eve, 2012

Do ya wanna hear a picture of a walking inspiration?
She's an open invitation to a heart that needs to love
She makes you sing and smile. She's a honey, free and wild
She's the warmest lady, aunty, grandma, mother, loyal friend

She's all around the country - her home is everywhere
She has a place for everyone. Everyone has a place for her
She wraps her arms around you, you never want to leave
Her belly laugh is so relaxed, her life a summer breeze

Yes, lovely lady, I'm talking about you
Singing all your praises – the country, it should too
And give you a medal - how wonderful you are!
In my honours list you've won The Honey & The Star

Friends, she's got a certain style – it's sort of 'universal'
You know when she's around coz there's a smile everywhere
I cannot put my finger on what it is about her
It's a privilege to know her – it's a buzz to have her near Yes, lovely lady ...

She has so much to teach you that you cannot find in writing
And you feel she is inviting you to a party or to tea
She's clear & quite uncluttered – though her list is overflowing
That reminds me, time is going. It's another new year's eve

Well if this song is pretty it is just a spark of her beauty
Such an awesome woman - a treasure I have found
Her love will shine forever. Take a moment to remember
To express a little thank you - she won't always be around
